not have been tempted to reply at Akron.

"He we have a concrete instance where a little duplicity, a little evasion, a little lack of courage, a little wavering in that obedience which should have been given the will of the majority at a critical moment, resulted in the losing of the chief executive.

Protective Politics.

"Next we learn that there are a certain kind of Republicans whom the party must unload. He is the man who is in politics to make money or protect special interests. I care not whether you call such a man a boss or a leader, his place is not at the head, if his party activity is dictated by a desire to make money by the use of party majorities. No man ought to get rich in politics, whether in office or out.

"Next there is the spoils Republican. We must get along without him hereafter. He is the man who takes no interest in party success except so far as it means a distribution of public offices."

Speaking of matters before the present legislature, Mr. Ellis said:

"The people of Ohio expect a county salary law, the inspection of banks, the protection or disposition of the canals, reforms in the primary election and in the ballot, the abolishment of the lobby and some amendments to the municipal code which will concentrate responsibility and make more flexible the government designed for the smaller cities."

Ideal Party Man.

Concluding a list of questions as to what the Republican party stands for, with answers, Mr. Ellis said:

"More than all these it stands for that man who is the embodiment of its principles and the greatest apostle of its faith; that man who has given a higher sanction and called to a loftier duty the party of Abraham Lincoln than any it has known since a million freemen died to give it birth—the champion of individual liberty, the foe of oppression and dishonesty, the Republican president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt."

BURT'S THEATRE.

"The Way of the Transgressor" which comes to Burt's theatre for the entire week tells a good story and tells it well. It teaches a moral by forcible example not by deduction or through inane talk. It is strenuous, virile and at all times life like. Its comedy is not buffoonery or burlesques on any nationality or creed but the apt portrayal of quaint characters that you will recognize in a moment. To compress the salient points of the intricate plot into a newspaper article is impossible. That task would be as difficult as boiling down a novel into a column. All that can be said about it is that the efforts of an arch villain, who assumes the name of Jack Harris, to secure the fortune of Romp Henderson are frustrated by her natural shrewdness and honesty of purpose. In all her marvelous adventures she is ably assisted by four canine thespians—the marvelously educated Landseer dogs who act with almost human intelligence.

LYCEUM THEATRE.

Eugenie Blair, one of America's most gifted and talented actresses has been seen here numerous times the past few years in "Zaza" will play her annual engagement at Toledo at the Lyceum theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, appearing in an elaborate revival of Charles Dickens' famous master piece, "Oliver Twist," Miss Blair appearing as Nancy Sikes. The play is divided into six acts in eighteen scenes, and is said to be the most handsomely staged and the most careful attention paid to the costume and every minute detail which goes to make a perfect performance. Those who have read "Oliver Twist" as well as those who have not, will find Miss Blair's adaption one of thrilling interest. Her portrayal of Nancy is said to be of the more womanly type of any other impersonators of this most trying role. Every bit of scenery in the production is painted from model of the exact localities mentioned in Dickens' book. Probably the most striking canvases are Bill Sikes' garret and the scene depicting London Bridge at night. "Oliver Twist" will be given throughout the engagement except at the Thursday matinee performance, when a single representation of "East Lyn" with which Miss Blair's name is indelibly associated, will be given.

EVANGELISTIC WORK

Miss Eva Zingg read a very interesting paper on the evangelistic work of the young people's society, at the meeting of the Young People's Christian Union at B. G. last Saturday. Her paper was well written, and was the product of much thought. She especially emphasized the fact that the young boys and girls must be brought into the kingdom, before they have a chance to be led away in other paths. The Epworth League and the Christian Endeavor are great factors in the evangelization of the world, and should be given a high place among the departments of the church. Individual work is needed in the various societies, and each one should try to do his or her duty so far as individual effort is concerned.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.
